HACKNEY COACHES.

Tradesmen Protested When They First Appeared In London.

In a letter dated April 1, 1639, Mr. Garrard, writing to the Earl of Strafford, says; "Here is one Captain Baily, He hath been a sea captain, but now lives in London, where he tries experiments. He linth erected according to his ability some four hackney coaches. put his men in a livery and appointed them to stand at the Maypole in the Strand, giving them instructions at what rate to carry men into several parts of the town, where all day they may be had.

"Other backney men seeing this way, they flocked to the same place and performed their journeys at the same rate. so that sometimes there are twenty of them together, which disperse up and

Citizen shopkeepers bitterly complained of this, saying:

"Formerly when ladies and gentlemen walked in the streets there was a chance of customers, but now they whisk past in the coaches before our apprentices have time to cry out. 'What d'ye lack?'

The word cab, a contraction of cabriolet, was not used until 1823.-London Standard.

He Liked Scotchmen.

The late Meredith Townsend had an affection for Scotsmen as contributors to the Spectator, of which he was for so many years proprietor and coeditor. Mr. Townsend's liking for the Scots was based on an experience he had in Leith when a boy. He was on a holiday and had run short of money for his return to London. He boldly boarded a London passenger boat, intimated his desire to the captain to go south, explained who he was and stated that he was without funds. Seemingly favorably impressed by the lad's tale and appearance, the captain, a Scot, said that would be all right and showed him to a cabin. "But," said young Townsend, "this is a saloon. As things are steerage would do all right." "Na. na, my mannle," said the captain. "If I trust ye at all I'll trust ye first class?" London Speciator,

The First Henchmen.

Skent derives the word henchman from hengstman (Anglo-Saxon), horseman, groom. It is probable that henchmen were in the first instance young nobles who at state ceremonies attended on the king as mounted pages. History speaks of these henchmen in this capacity, for we read that Henry VI. had three and Edward IV, six of them. We find, too, that they were mentioned in the royal ceremonies as belonging "to the riding household" and took part in tournaments. The last time "heachman" is mentioned in connection with the court is in the reign of Henry VIII., and gradually it came to mean an ordinary page. The word is used by Ben Jonson and Shakespeare in this sense.

A Wonderful Vine.

Grapevines are known to live a great many years and bear almost rearly crops of good fruit. One of the ildest grapevines in this country. which grows on Roanoke island, North Carolina, is claimed to be more than 00 years old. Its yield is still very bundant, and the vine appears to be n good health. Historians declare that it was planted by members of Sir Walter Raleigh's party, who sailed from England for the const of the new world in the year 1584. Many persons have secured cuttings from this plant. but few will grow.-Harper's Weekly.
